If you have any questions about any of my books that are currently published or soon-to-be released, all you need to do is email me through the CONTACT ME tab on my website. I love to hear from readers. Don't be shy either. I've had reads email me for a recipe my characters have spoken about. I even had a few daring fellows hit me up over being wrong about a certain submissive things. Looks right at you I couldn't believe it either. I wasn't wrong. If there was some mix-up, it was my characters in their fictional worlds that clearly didn't see the harm in skewing the absolute truth to make things more interesting. Now... Narrows a look at you I might have helped them out, but I WILL STRESS, I do the research.

Files nails while I try to ignore your stares of shock until...

Bah! I have to cave.

Truth is, the research is not ALL fun, and every bit of it is up to my author-like interpretation. So, please keep this in mind if I have a character cut her pizza with the Wharton Wheel or she uses her supply of kitty litter for something other than the cat box. Oh, and for the non-BDSM books? No worries. I've labeled most as paranormal/fantasy or a combo of both, so I get to make up whatever I want and skew the truth of my own interpretation as heavily as I can.

Good times. 😊
